Notes:

All Floors4ever floors must be fitted by fully insured, skilled professionals who understand the unique requirements of each installation. Our warranty exclusively covers floors installed by competent flooring specialists meeting British or international professional standards. We strongly recommend consulting our Installation Guides and Warranty Policy for comprehensive guidance.

Wood is a naturally variable product, which means each floor is plank is unique. No sample or image can perfectly capture the complete character of a finished floor. When exposed to light, wood undergoes subtle colour transformations; darker wood species typically develop a warm, golden tone, while lighter woods gradually become slightly darker. During the production process, cracked knots are filled with putty, and it's normal to occasionally observe small gaps between the putty and the wood.
